Creative office furniture refurbishment transforms new HR and Administration Offices at Rockstar Games in Lincoln, UK.

The office furniture refurbishment project saw the complete transformation of the HR and Admin departments with new desks, chairs, and storage, along with a collaborative seating area.

Our team of designers focused on the theme of the current interior design and analysed how we could make the best use of the existing layout with a focus on providing employees with a choice of different work style solutions.

Acoustic Screens:

The characteristic ceiling-hung acoustic screens function as a great floating room divider which has helped create a private area for focused work, meetings, and collaboration. The exciting decorative range provides an element of visual interest, texture, and creativity, whilst reducing distraction.

The refurbished open-plan workspace now has a fresh, modern, and more youthful look and feel with new coordinating rugs, striking copper desk lamps, stylish modern furniture, and effective acoustic screens. The office identity was defined by the introduction of yellow and black as primary accent colours, in line with Rockstar's company's branding.

The whole process was managed seamlessly by Combined Office Interiors project manager Steve Robinson, who ensured that the minimum amount of disruption was caused to Rockstar Games' operations during delivery and installation. The result is an inviting and inspiring workspace that will help employees to be more productive.
